2. A member examines the jewelry found at a Desi Fashion store in Hamtramck.
3. One group enjoys the warm weather by the Fountain Bistro in Downtown Detroit.
4. A group picture is always a must when you have flowers to compliment!
- 5-6. Connor Foerster (12) holds an adorable puppy from a local farm in Detroit and takes a picture on the edge of a rooftop.

"The experience was great because I was able to meet more people, unlike the other summers I've had!"
Kelsey Knight (10)

An innovative diversity program that incorporates photography and leadership training, Generation of HOPE (GOH) exists as a result of the partnership with Generation of Promise and Focus: HOPE. This leadership training program provides students across the tri-county area to be involved with exploring the many cultural relations and with gaining a more broad perspective of communities that are outside of their own. The basics of photography and photojournalism is taught to the students as they engage in documenting the different communities that they explore.

Ms. Gilchrist, the liaison representing Fitzgerald, states that "Generation of HOPE is an opportunity to see the world through different lenses."

"I love Focus: HOPE's different programs, they're all so diverse and exciting."
Winston Balmaceda (12)

7. With the many different murals found at the TAP Alley in Detroit, the group takes a signature photographer pose in front of one.
8. The members visit a public mural that exists at TAP Alley for anyone to come by and leave their artistic mark.
